Flame in Winter

2017 SAPPORO ASIAN WINTER GAMES collaboration project
ANBD Special Poster Exhibition

冬の炎

Greeting

I would like to especially thank, on behalf of the members of ANBD, the artists who have come to join us from around the world, including not only our neighboring Asian countries but also the European region, to honored us with their presence.

The ANBD Special Poster Exhibition has been hosted and organized as a part of the 2017 Sapporo Asian Winter Games. It is not only a great honor to be a part of this global event, but also a great delight to hold this special exhibition within the scenic winter landscape of Sapporo.

ANBD stands for “Asia Network Beyond Design.” Our organization was established in 2007 with the mission to connect artists of different genres of art in the effort to bring together the diverse regional artistic styles of Asia for the expansion of cultural value. ANBD’s first exhibition was held in 2008, and since then, we have hosted 36 exhibitions that introduced more than 12,000 artworks.

Starting today, ANBD will start its preparations to leap onto its next stage for the coming decade. Over the past decade, our organization has focused on promoting communication between different artistic genres. For the next decade, we hope to take on the challenge of creating new value through the integration of the design, art, and culture in Asia and beyond.

Lastly, I express my deep gratitude to the Director of the ANBD Special Poster Exhibition Committee, Professor Harada Akira and the committee members for their great efforts and commitment towards this project.

President, Association of Asia Network Beyond Design
Professor, Hansung University

Cho Youl

Greeting

I would like to extend my sincere greetings to all the participants of the ANDB (Asia Network Beyond Design) special poster exhibition and the members of the ANBD (Asia Network Beyond Design) association, who cooperated in making this event a grand success.

The Sapporo Asian Winter Games held on February 2017 is a big sports festival, which has been supported not only by the headquarters staff and athletes, but also by the people of Sapporo.

It is the first attempt to successfully integrate sports culture with art & design, powered by the International network formed under the ANBD society. In fact, this is not the first time to conduct such an event. Even before 2000 years, the Greeks enjoyed many types of entertainment, such as sports, arts, music and theatre in their everyday life.

A Global Sports Festival that unfolds in the world of snow, with priceless art works from around the world on the theme of Flame in Winter. This will be an attempt towards bringing out the joy of leading a healthy lifestyle, not just for the people living in Japan but also for all visitors from around the world, who will be visiting Sapporo.

I sincerely hope that the warm light from this Flame in Winter, will light the path to a prosperous and successful urban planning in the future.

President, Sapporo City University

Hasumi Takashi

Metaphor “Flame in Winter”

The 2017 SAPPORO ASIAN WINTER GAMES invites many Sapporo citizens to support and participate in its volunteer activities. It is one of the aims of the event to encourage international and local exchange among the supporters.

It is our first attempt to mix sports culture and art culture.

We expect a synergistic effect: people with less interest in art can enjoy sport graphics and those who are not interested in winter sports can actually appreciate sports through art. The effect can enhance the development of both sports and arts, which Sapporo city has promoted. The winter season does not always have a bright image, but we hope that our project will provide an opportunity for discovering a new enjoyment of winter life as well as communicating respectfully with different cultures.

Association of ANBD has been calling graphic representations for abstract themes (such as Asian minds). In this year, it is the first time, we called for poster expression with strong message and strong purpose. We called for poster entries that illustrate the 2017 SAPPORO ASIAN WINTER GAMES using a visual metaphor for the theme “Flame in Winter”.

I obviously convinced that the metaphorical expression "Sport is Flame" will produce many new stimuli.

The posters of these 218 works will be released from February 8th 2017 at the Sapporo Citizen's Gallery. As a result, what kind of expectation will be evoked against the 2017 SAPPORO ASIAN WINTER GAMES?

By all means, I would like everyone to experience it in the exhibition hall.

Review

Reviewing a total of 218 pieces on the same theme submitted from Korea, Taiwan, China, and Japan was a great opportunity to be exposed to current design, and was very stimulating. Since the review standards emphasized artistic aspects such as aesthetics and creativity, I approached the review keeping in mind that it was not just a poster design competition for a winter sports tournament held in a northern snowy city. The applicants seemed to understand that point well, and I saw many that seemed to have been inspired by Flame in Winter rather than the straightforward appeal required of posters, and that developed images similar to art. Fire is certainly a constantly transforming and mysterious presence that fascinates us, and computer technology is probably the ideal way to model that image. There were a lot of CG works, and even among the landscapes and the figurative motifs those using computer effects were conspicuous.

It feels poles apart from the era of being shut away in a darkroom testing special effects on photos, cutting and pasting phototypes, and designating colors by small chips. In those days, the work was done with the imagined finish always in mind, and the depth of experience and making environment were greatly reflected in the results. What about now? No sooner have you imagined it than a finished image is displayed on the monitor. That's all the more reason why wealthy ideas is actually required now more than ever. And although the new technology certainly brings us a new vision, it is also a fact that by amplifying it we lose freshness surprisingly quickly. No matter how much the equipment evolves, it doesn't change the fact that extracting unique ideas and the research into the knowledge and technology for visualizing them is important. In these excellent works I can definitely find the after effects of that struggle.

Artwork judging review

The judging committee of 2017 Sapporo Special Exhibition has announced that twenty seven award winning artworks. Among them, Yurie Harada of Sapporo and Jihong Jeong of Seoul will be the Grand Prix recipients of the first special event, ANBD. Their achievements are balanced out over various aspects of technique and skill, and presented in a well-rounded. I think, Especially, Yurie has a keen sense of composition and Jihong's artwork demonstrates sophisticated skill and brilliant imagination.

The other award winning artworks also show great depth and clear ideas. Each work is well presented the characteristics of winter sports festival as well as special energy from static image of Sapporo in winter. I can guess that the notable and experienced judges had the challenging but pleasant task reviewing all of the amazing entries from numerous talented and creative people from various areas.

Furthermore it is encouraging that I could hardly distinguish the differences between students' works and general artists' works. The student winners who presented fine and remarkable achievements should be deserved praise and encouragement. The experiences will make them serve as great energy and power winning the competition will be a wonderful boost for their future.

Finally, I wish to express a sincere gratitude to the judges and everyone who participated in the 2016 Sapporo Special Poster Exhibition and to encourage their efforts.
